The Elba City Board of Education awarded the contract for the construction of the new elementary school building last Thursday night.

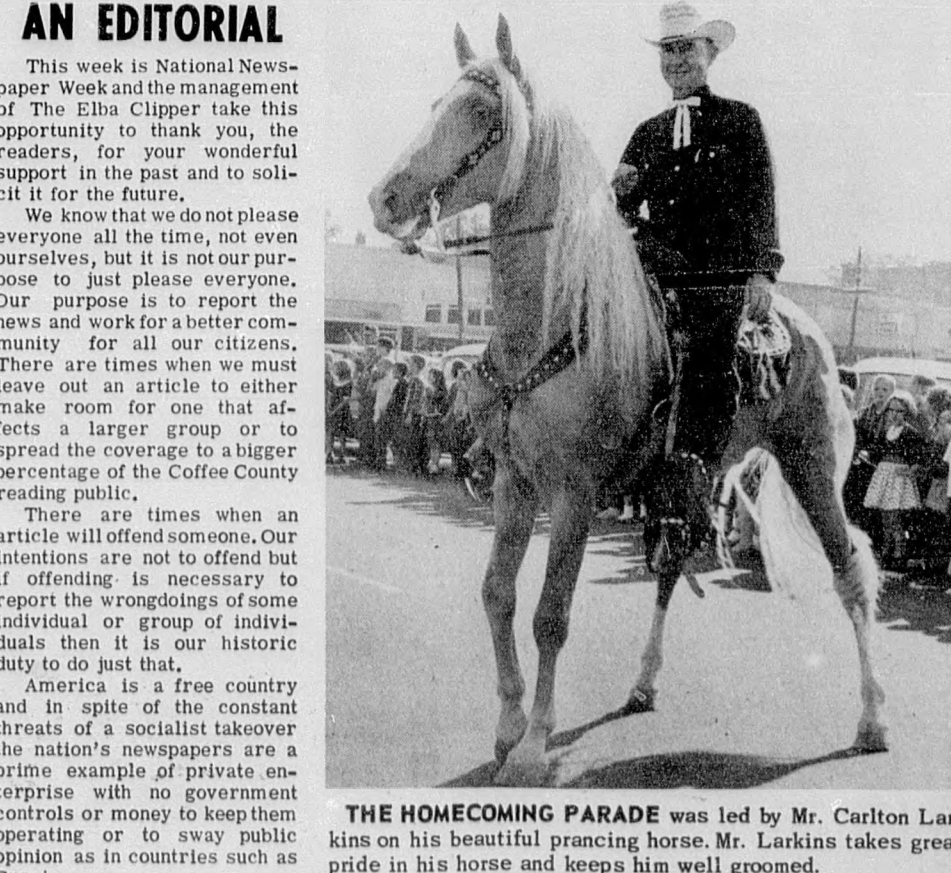

The building will be located on the east side of the Troy Highway between the Jaycee Park and the levee. The contract calls for the building to be completed in 300 calendar days. The School Board has been notified by the state of Alabama that money is now available for school construction from the State Bond Issue that was passed by the Legislature. The proposed gymnasium at Mulberry Heights will be pulled from these funds. The school board plans to get this building under construction as soon as possible and have both buildings completed by September, 1966.

COOPERATION was the key word Friday afternoon when these young men started this goat cart down the homecoming route. The boys worked out a system to get the goat to pull — one pulled the goat, another twisted his tail and the third hollered. The boys are Donnie Crosby, Greg Trammell and George Dorsey.

THE HOMECOMING PARADE was led by Mr. Carlton Larkin on his beautiful prancing horse. Mr. Larkin takes great pride in his horse and keeps him well groomed.

Mrs. McDaniel is Running For State Auditor

Juanita Worthington McDaniel, of Montgomery, has announced that she plans to be a candidate for the office of State Auditor in the Alabama Democratic Primary of 1966. "This is not a snap decision," said Mrs. McDaniel, confirming the announcement of candidacy, "but a step worked toward for years."

"I am very much interested in good state government and in seeing women take an active part in Alabama politics," stated the Andalusia native. Connected with Alabama politics and state government for 15 years, Mrs. McDaniel joked that the most difficult thing about the campaign will be "to talk for myself after speaking for so many others."

She is presently serving with the Alabama Trade School and Junior College Authority.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Worthington, Mrs. McDaniel graduated from Andalusia High School in 1942.

Mrs. McDaniel and her husband, Glenn R. McDaniel, civil engineer at Maxwell Field, have made their home in Montgomery for the past several years. He is a veteran of World War II and the Berlin Crisis.

The McDaniels have 3 children: Rebecca Ann, age 21, a student at Judson College; Glenda Kay, age 8, and Glenn Robert, Jr., age 4. They reside at 3025 Brevard Avenue, Montgomery.

ALL MANNERS of excuses are given for the waves of juvenile delinquency that continually poison this country. It is said that some way, some how, society has failed these young people and so society must take the bulk of the blame, how about parents? A man who is a real authority on crime and its causes, Director J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI holds a very different view. In his words, "Teen-agers and their parents have been subjected to a foamy theory which conceals the real cause of the crime."

When the HOUSE approved repeal of section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, the section which permits states, if they so choose, to pass Right-to-Work laws under which a man can join or not join a union, as he alone decides, without being deprived of his job, it looked as if it were all over but the shouting. There seems to be some votes in the Senate to continue the repeal legislation this session.

But in politics, as in other human affairs, the unexpected sometimes happens. And that has been the case with (4b) and amending state right-to-work laws. Is now dead as a do, for this session, but will be back again next year. Then the weight of public opinion, which the polls have shown, is strongly in favor of the existing law that the right-to-work is an absolute right, may cause Congress to again affirm a right which is vital to individual freedom.

The original site of the Capitol in Washington was occupied by a suburb of Algonquin Indians known as Potowatomi. Today it is occupied by a suburb of Democrats known as Johnsons.

IF CHILDREN were taught in the home by their parents and in the schools by their teachers one simple little rule of action: think of the sorrow and suffering it would save, not to mention the countless millions of dollars, this rule of action wouldn't require any new laws, it wouldn't cost a dime of taxpayers money, and it would reduce the cost of law enforcement and court trials. Respect for the rule would eventually become automatic with most children as they grow up. There wouldn't be so many news reports of murder, robbery, kidnapping, rape, purse snatching, automobile stealing and so on. And what is the rule of action that would reduce our vicious crime record if it became part of the thinking of children when it is taught to them daily by their parents and schools, along with suitable illustration of what it means?

"Keep your hands off other people and other people's property." It's that simple to keep out of trouble.

But that is not such news because the worst president this country has ever had has it. What is bad is that the President of these United States does not have a heart, or if he ever had one it has already been removed. That is bad.

THE FOOTBALL GAME last Friday night was a humdrum in my book. Both teams played good ball and that is more important than winning. And I'm not mistaken it is the first ballgame I have ever seen where there was not a single 15 yard penalty against one or both of the teams before it was over.

Then the weight of public opinion, which the polls have shown, is strongly in favor of the existing law that the right-to-work is an absolute right, may cause Congress to again affirm a right which is vital to individual freedom.

The original site of the Capitol in Washington was occupied by a suburb of Algonquin Indians known as Potowatomi. Today it is occupied by a suburb of Democrats known as Johnsons.

IF CHILDREN were taught in the home by their parents and in the schools by their teachers one simple little rule of action: think of the sorrow and suffering it would save, not to mention the countless millions of dollars, this rule of action wouldn't require any new laws, it wouldn't cost a dime of taxpayers money, and it would reduce the cost of law enforcement and court trials. Respect for the rule would eventually become automatic with most children as they grow up. There wouldn't be so many news reports of murder, robbery, kidnapping, rape, purse snatching, automobile stealing and so on. And what is the rule of action that would reduce our vicious crime record if it became part of the thinking of children when it is taught to them daily by their parents and schools, along with suitable illustration of what it means?

"Keep your hands off other people and other people's property." It's that simple to keep out of trouble.

But that is not such news because the worst president this country has ever had has it. What is bad is that the President of these United States does not have a heart, or if he ever had one it has already been removed. That is bad.

THE FOOTBALL GAME last Friday night was a humdrum in my book. Both teams played good ball and that is more important than winning. And I'm not mistaken it is the first ballgame I have ever seen where there was not a single 15 yard penalty against one or both of the teams before it was over.

WHEN THE HOUSE approved repeal of section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act, the section which permits states, if they so choose, to pass Right-to-Work laws under which a man can join or not join a union, as he alone decides, without being deprived of his job, it looked as if it were all over but the shouting. There seems to be some votes in the Senate to continue the repeal legislation this session.

But in politics, as in other human affairs, the unexpected sometimes happens. And that has been the case with (4b) and amending state right-to-work laws. Is now dead as a do, for this session, but will be back again next year. Then the weight of public opinion, which the polls have shown, is strongly in favor of the existing law that the right-to-work is an absolute right, may cause Congress to again affirm a right which is vital to individual freedom.

AMAZED..

I tell a few war stories — just like the rest. The censorship of good taste and modesty makes my experiences pretty drab. But Jerry thrills to them. He's proud of his Dad's Purple Heart!

My son would be amazed if I were to tell him the stories we never tell; our thoughts as we hit the beach... what it was like in those jungles... what was done to its dead... and its living.

And in other ways Jerry would be amazed; for he doesn't know me as a man who prays often. He can't realize the depth of my Faith. He has never met the brave chaplain who brought me in when I was hit.

I'll never tell Jerry all of it. I don't think God wants me to!

I pray that Jerry's may be a different world. I want him to learn day by day, step by step, what His religion will mean to him!

That's why we're a church-going family!

National Competitive NROTC Examinations To Be Given December 11

Vice Admiral B.J. Semmes, Jr., Chief of Naval Personnel, announced recently that 11 December has been designated as the test date for the 20th annual NROTC examination. Parents should remind eligible high school senior and graduates to submit their applications before 19 November, 1965.

The Regular NROTC Program, which is designed to supplement the career officer output of the U.S. Naval Academy, offers a wonderful opportunity for a young man to earn a commission while studying at one of the 52 NROTC colleges and universities. The Navy furnishes tuition, fees and books, plus a subsistence allowance of $50 per month to the NROTC midshipman. After completing his four year college course and all requirements, an NROTC midshipman is commissioned as a regular officer in the U.S. Navy or Marine Corps and goes on active duty with the forces.

The program is open to male high school seniors and graduates who will have reached their 17th birthday on or before 1st September 1966. Those who make a qualifying score will be interviewed and given medical examinations early in 1966. Approximately 1,600 young men from those remaining in competition will be selected to attend college next September to prepare for their naval careers.
